JOHN S. SAYWARD, Editor.

TUESDAY, APRIL 19, 1842.

Rhode Island.

The President's letter has had the effect upon several men of the suffrage party in Rhode Island to cause them to withdraw from the party, so far as going immediately forward is concerned. Mr. Jonah Titus has publicly declined standing as a candidate for office and others it is said will do the same.

The Chronicle of Saturday evening says -

"Upon the whole, matters are in a very strange and uncertain state, and the aspect of things to-day is such as would seem to favor a peaceful adjustment of all difficulties, by the impossibility of getting up a ticket the individuals of which can be persuaded to take the responsibility of accepting of the nominations.

It was thought nevertheless that the great body of the suffrage party would proceed and vote for some candidates whether or no.

If Massachusetts is getting to have some very wicked men in it, as appears from the fact that a countryman from Vermont returning home from Boston last week, was robbed, about a mile from Lexington. He was accosted by two men, one of whom presented a pistol to his breast and demanded his money. The man made some resistance, and cried loudly for help, they then pulled him from the wagon and struck him a severe blow on his forehead which rendered him almost senseless, and then rifled him of his money, consisting of between 10 and 12 dollars, one bill was a $5. of the Bank of Woodstock, Vt. They left his pocket book and papers scattered on the ground, and made off across the fields.

If THE COMMON SCHOOL JOURNAL is a work of great merit, and devoted to one of the highest interests of mankind. It is indeed of too exalted a character to be generally appreciated, and while at work with an untiring vigor does not exert a tithe of the influence upon the community which it should and would do if more generally circulated and read. We have labored for years, in a humble way, to promote the education of the young, and improve our common schools, but we frankly confess that, with the benefit of some experience, we never read a number of the Journal without obtaining some new practical hints. We think such will be the case with all teachers of youth, and with all parents generally. It seems surprising to us that any teacher should neglect reading this valuable little manual, for such it in fact is, in his business. To School Committees and parents it conveys a mass of valuable information that they cannot well do without. Its cost is only one dollar a year, and its reading is very pleasant.

If It is about time for our farming friends to think about grafting their apple trees - This should be attended to, and good fruit obtained. No apple tree, should be allowed a place upon a farm, that does not bear good fruit. We met a farmer at Augusta last fall, who had an orchard which was no profit to him, the fruit was probably of poor quality his trees needed to be grafted. We are acquainted with a farmer in this County who sold the last season about $1000 worth of apples from his orchard his trees are grafted.

If The Madisonian says "We understand that it is proposed to cause the Government printing, in all its varieties, to be executed in an office to be established in this city, under the superintendence of persons appointed for the express purpose. This movement has our most hearty concurrence, as being calculated to reduce the expenditures, and do away with the rivalry and ill-humor generated by the competition of partisans in behalf of presses devoted to party ends."

The Texas War.

There was a report at Natchitoches, on the 2d inst., and to be direct from Houston, confirming the capture of the Mexican troops under the command of General Velasquez, who sacked the town of San Antonio. General Burleson came up with them near the Rio Grande, and after a sharp parley obliged them all to surrender.

If The Piscataquis Herald was suspended a few weeks since and there is now issued, from the same office, of enlarged size, the Piscataquis Farmer. It makes a very respectable appearance is very much such a paper as they need in that country and perhaps the only kind that can be well supported there. The Farmer is published by G. V. Edes, Esq. and edited by but we do not at present say by whom.

If Capt. Barney, of Nantucket, has succeeded in taking a number of whales, with the aid of a swordfish and the other. These fish are trained to the business after the manner of seals, & being let loose from a cage, they are towed by the ship, they enter a boat of whales, select the largest and fattest, and soon close up his earthly course.

If The Washingtonians in Piscataquis County have already chosen a large committee of arrangements for celebrating the approaching Fourth of July upon strict temperance principles.

If The Young Farmers' convention is very largely to the farmers of Maine, to set out pear trees upon their farms. The climate of Maine is congenial, and there are some excellent seedlings we may say to be obtained.

If A letter from Washington says that the new tariff will be upon an average about 30 per cent., a articles much above, and some much below.

Bangor, April 16th, 1842.

If We are requested to give notice that the Bangor Martha Washington Society will meet at Smith's Hall, Tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon, at 2 o'clock. A punctual attendance is requested.

If The anti-Garrison abolitionists have called another Convention to be held in Boston, on the 24th of next month, to nominate a candidate for Governor.

If If you wish for early salled, and cannot afford a hot bed, just prepare, forthwith, a little bed in the garden, and put in the seed the sooner the better.

If The Loan Bill passed the Senate by a clear party vote, Clayton of Delaware being the only Whig in the negative while all the opposition Senators voted against it.

If It is estimated that there is now upon the ground one third more wheat in this country than at any former period.

If The best books in the world are in the English language either in the original or translation.

If A large number of new stores and houses are being built in almost every part of Boston.

For the Bangor Courier
Martha Washington Society.

Among the numerous benevolent associations of the present day, engaged in the noble work of ameliorating the moral and physical condition of our fellow beings, few claim a higher rank than those whose efforts are exerted in behalf of the wretched inebriate, writhing under his self-inflicted pangs. To rescue him from his deep debasement, to soothe and comfort him, to inspire him with self respect in a word to restore him to society and give back the husband to the suffering wife, the father and protector to starving children this is the work of our Washingtonian and kindred Societies. What a glorious field is here, for the exercise of philanthropy and tenderness. The women, with their characteristic humanity, patriotism and kindness, have come forward in this cause, and with feeble hearts and willing hands are performing their portion of the labor in this mighty effort to dethrone the tyrant intemperance. While the Washingtonians are seeking, and kindly persuading back to society and usefulness, the degraded and fallen, the members of the Martha Washington Societies are visiting the drunkard's family, and administering to their wants and comfort, and cheering their despairing hearts with bright hopes of the future. The exertions of the noble and kind hearted women of our own city, in this behalf is worthy of great praise. They have come forward in this cause with a zeal worthy of them. The Martha Washington Society of this city numbers upwards of an hundred and forty members. An afternoon in each week, they meet to ply the needle in the manufacture of various articles of clothing intended for distribution among the families of those who with strong resolution are striving to come up from their degradation to which the subtle serpent of the still has reduced them. God speed them in this work of heavenly charity and kindness, till every vestige of intemperance and its effects shall be spoken of only, as things that are passed away forever.

[For the Whig and Courier]
"To the one who can understand it,"

"A violet by a mossy stone
Half hidden from the eye,
Fair as a star, when only one
Is twinkling in the sky."

At what season are we severely filled with the beauty of this sunlight on Nature, as when the early buds of Spring are calling us forth to bow in "God's first Temples"? At that season when all of beauty has been, through a dreary Winter, shrouded by a frozen pall, when Nature wakes, and like a roused infant, smiles at seeing friends. And who so unobservant that he has never noticed the analogy, between the physical and moral world? Who has not seen with the closing Autumn flowers, bright hopes decline, as 'twere to die? And who has not seen these same will-o'-the-wisps come forth again to lead their unfortunate votaries into mines too deep even for their winding imaginations to traverse? Hopes are ever deceiving us, but never do they faint and revive many times, in the heart of one possessed of Woman's Nature. Never until that Nature has been destroyed by long continued worship of Phantoms by having deceived itself so often, that at length it slides into error all unconsciously, and then it is ready to cast such errant upon one with whom it is unfortunately connected.

Delicacy, whose influence is so gentle, so uniform and purifying, when the soul is ready to receive it, delicacy, that key which opens the stern heart of man, sliding in and taking it unconsciously almost, to the captured, lends a charm to Woman which no talents, no beauty, no constancy ever can confer. Who could love a Goddess, did she write verses on rose leaves, with a plume from the wing of an angel, and yet wanted delicacy? Who could worship at a shrine, where the Deity even sued for their favor? And when man is called to bow to a creature like himself, with much of the tangibility of mortality, it behoves woman not to forget the first virtue of her sex.

And here young ladies all, I would advise that delicacy be your watch word, friendship and love are nothing without it, and who of you but hope for both? Retired virtue, is not neglected, delicate beauty, not disregarded, but on the contrary, the more priz'd when unexpected-ly found. Let women be

"Like the way-side violet,
Which man unseen, and were it not,
For its sweet breath would be forgot,
and she will be beloved

LITERATURE.

The private ship "Dardan" arrived at New York, on the 18th instant, having been away from Europe, for 18 months, and the public that the year previous to her departure, was in our currency system, the number of banks created was 22, with a capital of $8,000,000; that in the next two years, the number of banks created was 22, with a capital of $36,000,000; that the former banks were generally sound, and the latter have generally proved unsound, and that the loss to us -

A Constantinople letter of the 16th Feb. informs us that the Turkish Government appears determined to put down the pirates in the Archipelago, and in addition to the eight vessels afloat, ten fast sailing schooners and small brigs are now employed on this service. The force is to be under the command of Admiral Walker.

The ship Thomas Bell, from Liverpool for New York, with emigrants, mostly from the north of Ireland, put into Cork for repairs, and the poor passengers were obliged to seek admission into the work houses as paupers.

Another hurricane had visited a large portion of Ireland, with tremendous severity. Houses and trees were leveled before the wind as if mere chaff, and the destruction of property has been almost incalculable.

The neighborhood of the House of Commons has been in a state of the greatest excitement the whole afternoon, (11th ult) owing to the vast crowds of respectable people assembled to learn the tenor of Sir Robert Peel's Financial Statement.

The galleries inside and the lobbies outside the House have been besieged, and the eagerness and bustle of the newspaper people, and the clatter of cabs dashing to and fro with copy, have proved matters of no small wonderment to the bystanders.

There continued to be a great deal of excitement in Paris, about matters connected with Spain.

It has been recently discovered at Paris that the soldiers have been selling to the members of secret societies the cartridges entrusted to them for military purposes, and vigorous measures have been taken in order to put a stop to this infamous traffic. A chasseur named Julian has been convicted of the offence, and sentenced to six months imprisonment.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, April 14
In Senate, to day, Hon. Charles M. Conrad, Senator elect from Louisiana, vice Hon. Mr. Mouton, resigned, appeared, was qualified, and took his seat.

Mr. Woodbury's resolution, directing the Committee on Commerce to inquire into the state of our tonnage, trade, and commerce with foreign Governments, whether prosperous or otherwise, whether the regulations of other Governments are in conformity with existing arrangements, if not, what measures are necessary to ensure reciprocity, &c. was taken up.

Mr. Woodbury advocated the resolution. Mr. Simonds replied.

After brief conversation by Messrs. Evans and Huntington, the resolution was laid on the table for the present.

The remainder of the day was consumed in private business, the reception of petitions, &c.

In the House, a resolution was passed ordering the additional printing of 5,000 extra copies of the report from the Committee on Manufactures, on the tariff.

A resolution, offered by Mr. Fillmore, to terminate the debate on the Appropriation bill, in Committee of the Whole, on Saturday at 12 o'clock, M. was adopted.

The rules were suspended on motion of Mr. Fillmore, and the Loan Bill was taken up, the amendment of the Senate, adopted and the bill passed.

Mr. Cushing, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported a resolution requesting the President to enter into negotiations with the British Government for the purpose of effecting a permanent, equitable and conventional arrangement as to the commerce between the United States and the British Colonies. The resolution is accompanied by a report, both of which were ordered to be printed, and their consideration postponed till a week from Monday.

The Appropriation Bill was again taken up in Committee of the Whole on the Union. Mr. Butler and Mr. Wise replied to the remarks of Mr. Slade.

Mr. C. J. Ingersoll moved for the purpose of debate to reduce the appropriation for the missions to Austria and Prussia one half, and entered at length into the subject of our diplomatic relations. He held that in the five points of controversy between the United States and Great Britain, viz. the Caroline, the Creole, the Oregon Territory, the North Eastern Boundary questions, and that with reference to the right of search the United States were in the right, and should maintain strictly their position. He expressed a belief in the efficacy of Lord Ashburton's mission, and in his desire to promote peace, declaring, that by the application of a little good sense all our difficulties foreign as well as domestic could be settled. He ridiculed the idea of our want of preparation for a war, and of the facility with which the British might burn New York, declaring that it was as easy to burn London. He advertized to the steamships Mississippi and Missouri (which, destined for Washington Navy Yard, are now on the Potomac in sight of the Capital) as far superior to any other vessels of the world, and as just objects of American pride.

Mr. Adams made a powerful reply, amounting well nigh to an utter demolition, of the arguments of Mr. Ingersoll in regard to the Right of Search, and the other matters of difference between the United States and Great Britain, maintaining that the United States could not safely go to war on these issues, &c. &c. He yielded several times to Mr. Ingersoll for explanation, and did not conclude his remarks, intending a reply to Mr. Wise to-morrow.

Awful Steamboat Disaster.

At Baltimore, on Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, a steamboat explosion took place, attended with an awful loss of life and injury. The steamboat Medora, recently built by the Virginia and Maryland Steamboat Navigation Company, and intended to ply between Baltimore and Norfolk, was about to leave Cully's wharf upon an excursion down the bay, for the purpose of testing her qualities. A number of respectable citizens were invited to witness her performance, but how many were actually on board when the heart rending occurrence of her explosion took place, there were no means of ascertaining. All things, however, were being prepared, the bell rung and the wheels made three revolutions, when the boiler burst with a tremendous report, throwing up clouds of vapor, attended by fragments of the vessel, and by the bodies of the unfortunate human beings who were on board. The boiler was thrown crosswise on the deck, the whole forward part of the boat was torn in pieces, many persons were scalded by the steam, some jumped overboard and were drowned, others were blown into the air or crushed by falling timbers, and the whole scene was one of agony, terror and desolation.

The boat soon sank to the bottom. The Baltimore Sun says that she had been preparing for some time and that the water in the boiler had probably become nearly exhausted. At the time of the explosion the steam was blowing off with considerable force. The Mayor has advertised for 100 men to assist in raising the wreck and recovering the bodies of the dead.
